Graduates Honored at 31st Annual Spring Commencement

More than 370 candidates for undergraduate and graduate degrees were honored at the SUNYIT 31st annual spring Commencement May 21. The ceremony was held at the Utica Memorial Auditorium.

“You have worked long and hard to arrive at this moment,” SUNYIT President Dr. Peter A. Spina told the graduates. “It is a big day in your lives, an important occasion for your families and friends as they help you celebrate, and it is a meaningful time for all of us at SUNYIT as well.”

Graduate and undergraduate degrees were awarded to candidates from SUNYIT’s four Schools: Arts & Sciences, Information Systems & Engineering Technology, Management, and Nursing & Health Systems. John Zogby, President and CEO of Zogby International, was awarded an honorary doctorate. Also, the SUNYIT College Council’s Distinguished Service Award was presented to New York State Senator Kenneth LaValle. The award recognizes “persons who have contributed in extraordinary ways to their professions and to society.”

Dr. Michael I. Schafer, President of Mohawk Valley Community College, delivered the Commencement address. He urged graduates to continue to keep on learning, and to contribute to society. “Great things are accomplished by ordinary people who work to accomplish extraordinary things,” Dr. Schafer said. “Celebrate and nourish the life of your mind...and be sure to go out and make a difference in your community.”

Alumna Janet Ciccarelli ’75 had the last word at the ceremony, leading graduates in the symbolic tassel-turning signaling their formal transition from students to alumni. “What you have experienced here will forevermore be part of what defines you as an individual,” she told the Class of 2005. “Don’t forget your alma mater and the positive influences it has had on your lives.” Commencement was followed by a reception for graduates and their families in Kunsela Hall on the SUNYIT campus.

For the 2005-2006 academic year, Commencement will be held on Saturday, December 17, 10 a.m., in the Campus Center Gymnasium, and on Saturday, May 6, 2006, 10 a.m., at the Utica Memorial Auditorium.

SUNYIT Dedicates Three Rooms in Cayan Library

Ceremonies Recognize Endowed Scholarships

Dr. Theodore C. and Melva S. Max

April 7, 2005

The “Dr. Theodore C. and Melva S. Max Study Room” was dedicated in recognition of a $25,000 gift. College Council and SUNYIT Foundation Board member, retired surgeon and educator, Dr. Max held a number of hospital appointments during his career including senior surgeon, former chief of surgery, and past-president of medical staff at both St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Utica, N.Y., and St. Luke’s-Memorial Hospital, New Hartford, N.Y. He is a current or past member of a number of professional organizations, and is also active as a facilitator and board member of the Mohawk Valley Institute for Learning in Retirement at SUNYIT. Dr. Max is the recipient of the American Medical Association’s Physicians Recognition Award, and has been profiled in Who’s Who in Medicine and Healthcare, and Who’s Who in the World. He is the author of numerous research publications in his discipline, and has presented at medical and academic conferences across the country.

SUNYIT held three dedication ceremonies in spring 2005 to recognize the generosity of donors who have endowed scholarships. In each case, a gathering in the Cayan Library featured the formal naming of a room, and the unveiling of a bronze plaque and photograph as a permanent recognition of the endowed scholarship.

May 4, 2005

“The Institute of Technology Foundation Corporation Study Room” was dedicated in recognition of contributions exceeding $15,000 that will permanently endow the Foundation Corporation’s SUNYIT scholarship. The Foundation Corporation includes the Foundation Board of Trustees, the College Council, and Foundation Members. Speakers at the event were: Dr. Daniel Murphy, Vice President for Resource Development; Susan Divine, Foundation President; Jim G. Brock Jr., College Council Chair; and Daniel Schabert, Director of Libraries and Learning Resources. A cast bronze plaque was unveiled by Foundation President Susan Divine and Foundation Vice President Sheila Bamberger to display permanently the names of those who contributed to the endowed scholarship. The Institute of Technology Foundation at Utica/Rome, Inc. is the fundraising arm of the State University of New York Institute of Technology. Chartered in 1974 as a not-for-profit and tax-exempt organization, the Foundation’s mission is to promote, receive, invest, and disburse private gifts to SUNYIT.

Charles T. Lanigan

June 24, 2005

The “Charles T. Lanigan Room” was dedicated in recognition of a $50,000 gift from family members, friends, and colleagues of the former Mayor of Rome and Oneida County Executive whose vision was instrumental in the establishment of SUNYIT in the 1960s. An early proponent of establishing a State University of New York campus in the Utica-Rome area, Lanigan supported a county-funded study that established the need for an upper-division college in the SUNY system. SUNYIT was established in 1966 as “Upper Division College at Herkimer-Utica-Rome.” As Mayor of Rome from 1960 to 1962, Charles T. Lanigan helped lead a campaign to save Griffiss Air Force Base from closure, and suggested the idea of using federal urban renewal funds to establish a national memorial at a reconstructed Fort Stanwix in downtown Rome. He was the first elected Oneida County Executive, a candidate for state comptroller, chair of the New York State Republican Committee, and Treasurer of the New York State Thruway Authority Board.

Three Generations at SUNYIT

Four family members find success

Getting a degree at SUNYIT has helped more than 20,000 people launch successful careers over the last three decades. And for four Utica women, SUNYIT has become a kind of family tradition. Three generations of this single family have studied at SUNYIT; sometimes, they've crossed paths in the process.

Their story begins with Natalie Festine. After high school, she earned an associate's degree in science laboratory technology, in 1975, from Mohawk Valley Community College. Next, she enrolled at SUNYIT (then Upper Division College on Court Street), and earned a bachelor of arts degree in behavioral science with a psychology concentration. Influencing that choice was Dr. Alice Finer, her psychology professor. "I loved her classes. She was a role model," Festine says.

During that time, Festine completed a work-study placement in the admissions office. It was valuable experience. Her supervisor, Dr. William Murabito, was an important mentor. "He was very encouraging, and a resourceful person," Festine says. "He advised me throughout my career."

Like daughter, like mother. At the same time Festine was pursuing a degree at SUNYIT, her mother, Elizabeth Scalise, joined her at the old West Utica campus, resuming her own education. Decades earlier, Scalise had earned an associate's degree in retail management from MVCC. After studying nursing for a year at Syracuse General Hospital, she returned to Utica – raising a family, and working part-time.

With her three daughters grown, and at her husband's suggestion, Scalise became a SUNYIT student. With many transferable credits, she chose health services management. Scalise enjoyed accounting, nursing home management and law classes, but computer programming was difficult. "At first, I didn't get it, but another student helped me," she recalls. And a year after receiving a bachelor's degree in 1978, she celebrated the graduation of daughter Ellen, who earned a bachelor of science in criminal justice from SUNYIT.

Three generations: Elizabeth Scalise, Kathryn Festine, Natalie Festine

Fast-forward to the 21st century: Natalie Festine's daughter, Kathryn Festine, transferred to SUNYIT in 2004 after attending MVCC and Utica College. A group home manager for the ARC of Oneida-Lewis Counties, she's majoring in sociology. Just like her grandmother, Kathryn says her success in the classroom is due to faculty who "know their stuff and are good at conveying it." Dr. Patricia Murphy, assistant professor and writing program coordinator, "made me feel more confident about my writing; she made it fun," Kathryn Festine says.

And after SUNYIT?

Natalie Festine earned a master's degree in higher education from SUNY Albany, completing it in 1979. Then, she returned to SUNYIT – this time, as an admissions counselor. From 1978 until 1981, she traveled across the state promoting the college at two-year schools. With its strong nursing, health care management and human services programs, the college "sold itself," she says.

After three years on the road, Festine became coordinator for student services at MVCC's Rome campus in 1981. In 1983, she became the first female vice president of student affairs at MVCC, where she says her proudest achievement was starting MVCC's first daycare center. Since 1993, she has been director of guidance for grades 7-12 in the Mohawk Central School District. It's work she finds even more gratifying than administrative tasks. "I feel I make a bigger difference in kids' lives," she says. "You build relationships with kids and parents, and you can have more impact."

After graduating from SUNYIT in 1978, Scalise worked for 10 years at the Sitrin Health Care Center, first as purchasing manager for housekeeping, and later in general purchasing. "I loved it," she says. Now retired, she spends time with family in the Mohawk Valley, and in Dallas, where daughter Ellen lives.

Kathryn Festine plans to complete her studies at SUNYIT in the fall of 2005 with a bachelor of arts degree in sociology. After that, she may attend graduate school, or join the Peace Corps.

All three generations like what they see happening now at SUNYIT. "My best friends are in the area, and everyone's nice here," says Kathryn Festine. And, her mother says, she's getting "great grades."

Grandma gets the last word: "The facilities are beautiful, the programs are good," says Elizabeth Scalise. "The teachers really make the place, and it's great you can get a four-year degree close to home."

Mission of Mercy: From Bangladesh to Nepal

Faculty member's volunteer experience offers valuable lessons for her – and her students

Last fall was a busy time for one member of the faculty in the School of Nursing & Health Systems. Pamela Slagle, clinical assistant professor, juggled two classes at SUNYIT, her practice in Rome, and the needs of four teenage children, three of them at home.

And she saw hundreds of patients in the jungle.

Actually, from October 1-18, 2004, Slagle was part of a small team of health care professionals who went to a jungle in Bangladesh, and to the city of Kathmandu, Nepal, under the auspices of the Canadian organization Child Haven International. "A friend of mine has been doing volunteer work like this for some time; he's a dentist in Canada," Slagle says. Invited to go for two weeks with the team of health care providers and support staff, Slagle told her husband, a Rome physician, "I really want to do this."

Child Haven International was founded in 1985; the organization cites the teachings of Mohandas K. Gandhi as its primary inspiration. The charitable organization helps children and women in India,

Nepal, Tibet, and Bangladesh, operating homes for orphans and children who are disabled or destitute.

Departing from Canada, the team took with them medicine and medical supplies paid for through fundraisers. And they put both those items and the team's collective skills to good use: the four health care providers saw an estimated 1,200 patients during two weeks of volunteer work.

For Slagle, the idea was the same one she employs as a family nurse practitioner. "Somebody comes in, they have a complaint, you do what you can." But that's where the similarity ends.

"I saw things I've read about – but thought I'd never actually see," Slagle says. "Malnutrition, post-polio paralysis, scabies, tuberculosis...in a way, it was really frustrating. I felt like I put a lot of Band-Aids® on, but we all knew that before we went there. [Our goal was to] go in, work as hard as we could, find out what we could, and think about how to make a difference. How to change things."

One of the ways Slagle hopes to help change things is to partner SUNYIT's School of Nursing & Health Systems with the Kathmandu University Teaching Hospital she visited in Dulikhel, Nepal. "Maybe I can nurture a connection with the nursing school there," she says. "They have only one computer, Internet access for one hour a day, and a limited library with very few textbooks. And no journals. I've got a pile of professional journals I'm sending."

Slagle says she hopes to return to the places she visited, and get other people interested in what she found to be a life-changing experience. But ultimately, the way to make a real and lasting difference in those countries, she says, is to support better training and education for their health care professionals. And her own students at SUNYIT, Slagle says, are learning valuable lessons about how to change the world by hearing about her experience. "They've heard my stories. Even before I went, my undergraduate students were so excited."

but thought I’d never actually see. ”

Traditions Abound at SUNYIT

By Brenda Dow,
Alumni & Parent Relations Officer

At SUNYIT tradition is alive and well, although changing with the times.

Since my arrival on campus April 18, I've had a chance to review yearbooks, listen to faculty and alumni stories about days past, and witness firsthand how, in some cases, what's old has become new again.

One such example is Apocalypse. Long a tradition at SUNYIT, Apocalypse has morphed to keep pace with the changing campus culture. Apocalypse 2005 was comprised of seven consecutive days of events, starting off with such current pop-culture activities as Family Guy premiere night, Laser Tag in Donovan Hall and a Foam Dance Party. It also included such traditional student activities as a comedian and a band performing, and ended with Carnival Day, a newer campus tradition.

While Greeks were big on campus in the past, the campus has moved from Greek games to Geek Games. This new event in May showcased the spaghetti-bridge building capabilities of students among other challenges.

What was once referred to as Senior Sendoff, an event not held in three years, was reborn in May at the request of students. The Senior/Graduate Student Sendoff and Alumni Welcome, held on campus, brought together members of the Class of 2005 (both seniors and graduate students) and local alumni. The theme of this upscale mixer was karaoke coffeehouse, featuring good food and Starbucks products, and it offered attendees a chance to win prizes by taking a turn at the microphone or by playing Battle of the Classes and SUNYIT Survivor (see photos online at <http://web.sunyit.edu/class05>).

While SUNYIT's elected body of student representatives has had many names over the years – URSA, Student Government Association, Student Association – its spirit has always remained the same. That spirit was formally recognized in April at the SUNY Students Assembly Conference in Rochester, N.Y., when members of the 2004-05 Student Association received the Spirit Award. Congratulations go to Jeffrey Clark, Andrew Corbin, Christopher Detlef, Keith Johnson, Sadanand Moolya, Rohit Radhakrishnan and Rishit Shah.

According to Johnson, who is Student Association president, it came down to a two-way tie between SUNYIT and Cobleskill, the reigning winners who were fully armed with their mascot, cheerleaders and props. Johnson says he believed SUNYIT won, because of the energy exhibited by SUNYIT students and their ability to make an impact drawing on their wit and spontaneous creativity using only themselves.

Recognizing the long tradition of student leaders and the difference they made at SUNYIT, the annual Student Recognition Banquet, which marked its 23rd year in May, invited back past presidents. Teresa Burton '99, Gary Cudam '82, Rich Maxon '94, Joe Ruggiero '91, Jerry Talerico '01 and Troy Stackler '03 were among the former URSA/SA leaders recognized at the event.

The banquet was followed by another SUNYIT tradition, the Spring Semi-Formal. It was great to see such a tremendous turnout of students as well as faculty and staff members who support and appreciate the students' efforts.

Commencement showcased another tradition, the turning of the tassels. Janet Ciccarelli '75, a member of the college's first graduating class, led this symbolic activity in her role as past president of the Alumni Association.

Not only is 2005 the 30th anniversary of SUNYIT's first graduating class, it's the 20th anniversary of the first Marcy campus building. Next year marks the 40th anniversary of another significant event: In 1966 the college was technically established when the New York State Legislature authorized the State University Trustees to create an upper division college in the Herkimer/Rome/Utica area.

To help reflect on SUNYIT's history and traditions a Genesis remembrance room will be available during Fall Fest, September 23-25. Contrasting nicely with this look at the past is Fall Fest's new ExperienceIT™ program through which SUNYIT students will share their talents, experiences and diverse perspectives. The weekend will also include the traditional Alumni Awards and Hall of Fame presentations and Alumni Baseball Game.

Fall Fest details and the registration form are enclosed in this issue of The Bridge. I invite and encourage all alumni to come to campus to partake of the broad array of offerings and see what life is like at SUNYIT today.

Fall Fest 05

September 23-25

Fall Fest 2005 is designed to enable alumni to experience SUNYIT from a variety of perspectives. The weekend blends favorite standards and innovative offerings, including the new ExperienceIT™ program, traditional athletic contests, the popular Casino Night, a new twist on Talent Night, and the highly acclaimed ThinkFast, which was "Voted '2005 Novelty Event of the Year.'"

The planning committee, with financial support from the Alumni Association and the SUNYIT Student Association, has worked hard to control costs while offering the most value possible for your registration and event fees.

September 14 is the deadline for registration with payment in full for both Fall Fest and the Alumni Awards/Hall of Fame Presentation & Reception. Use the registration form in this issue or accessible online through www.sunyit.edu/alumni/events by clicking on "Upcoming Events." Complete and return the form by September 14, enclosing a check or providing credit card or debit card information for payment (see details on form). Accommodations and Parking

A limited number of Utica/Rome-area hotel room blocks have been placed on hold on a first-come, first-served basis, and all unreserved rooms will be released approximately 2-4 weeks before Fall Fest. For information on participating hotels, release dates and rates, go to www.sunyit.edu/alumni/events and click on "Upcoming Events." Some hotels charge for parking; inquire with each hotel. All SUNYIT campus parking is free of charge; be sure to park in the Visitors designated areas unless the vehicle has an appropriate SUNYIT parking permit. For directions to campus and a campus map, go to www.sunyit.edu/visitors/virtual_tour and click on the appropriate links.

Cancellations

The Fall Fest committee is required to make advance arrangements and provide final counts to vendors many days prior to Fall Fest, resulting in financial commitments that it must honor even though registrants may not attend as planned. As a result, it is generally not possible to offer refunds after the registration deadline. However, if extenuating circumstances arise that require cancellation, immediately contact Alumni & Parent Relations at 315-792-7113 or alumni@sunyit.edu to determine what, if any, refunds may be possible at that time.

Late Registration

Late registration, registration forms submitted with payment in full after the September 14 deadline, will be permitted on a space-available basis and may be subject to a $10 late-registration processing fee.

Registration Form

September 14 is the deadline for registration with payment in full for Fall Fest and Alumni Awards/Hall of Fame Presentation & Reception.

Each person registering by the deadline will receive at check-in a voucher for extra Casino Night gaming tokens and a discount coupon for 20% off BookMark bookstore purchases, excluding textbooks and sale items, valid Fall Fest weekend.

The Benefits of Being a SUNYIT Alum

Being a member of the SUNYIT alumni body and an active member of the SUNYIT Alumni Association has its privileges. Just for graduating from the college, alumni receive a number of benefits, and dues-paying members of the Alumni Association – those who annually pay the voluntary fee that helps finance alumni programming – receive additional benefits.

Each alumnus of the college receives:

- The Bridge magazine, available in print or online (e-mail alumni@sunyit.edu to request online delivery).
- Invitations to alumni events.
- Offers for group-discount rates on insurance (through Liberty Mutual®), a special credit-card program (through MBNA), and other services providing savings or extra value as they become available.
- Access to free and fee-paid career services programs.
- Access to the campus intranet so they can easily update their contact information online and review their computerized student records.

In recognition of their financial support of the Association's efforts, dues-paying Alumni Association members are offered a number of additional benefits. Currently, all paid members of the Alumni Association:

- Receive discounts on various activities and events – including discounts totaling up to $26.75 for Fall Fest 2005 (savings that exceed the one-year Alumni Association membership fee of $25!).
- Receive a 20% discount from the Bookmark campus book store on non-sale and non-textbook items.
- Can present their membership card at the SUNYIT library enabling them to check out most library materials free of charge.
- Are entitled to a special SUNYIT Fitness Membership, allowing them access to the college athletics facilities at a special non-prorated price of $75 (a $140 value!) for each six-month membership period: July 1 through December 31, and January 1 through June 30.

- Are entitled to a special alumni Computer Access Account at a special price of $50 annually (a $150 value!) with a SUNYIT e-mail (so they are listed in the "Find Alumni" section of the SUNYIT web site), 100 MB of space on the college server, a home directory that is Internet accessible for file transfers and web pages, and activation through June 30 to be renewed annually (for details go to http://its.sunyit.edu/accounts/accounts_ldap_alumni.inc).

Benefits for both alumni and dues-paying Alumni Association members are continually being researched and reviewed, and new benefits or benefits enhancements are expected to be announced in the coming year.

All alumni are encouraged to get involved in the Alumni Association. Opportunities are available through committee work, event coordination or leadership positions on the all-volunteer board of directors that meets regularly throughout the year.

The Association, through the Alumni and Parent Relations Office, works to foster a sense of community among all members of the SUNYIT family – past, present and future. The Alumni Association's contributions to SUNYIT include scholarship support, financial support for the creation of the Ropes Course, and the establishment of the Wall of Memories in the Campus Center. Alumni events, including Fall Fest and receptions, are significantly or entirely funded by the Alumni Association, with the Association's budget coming from the voluntarily alumni fee, event revenues, and revenue-raising programs.

The Alumni Association and the Alumni & Parent Relations office sponsored the Senior/Graduate Send-off and Alumni Welcome on May 19, attended by (l-r) Marlonia Benjamin '05 and Joyce Nenonene '03 '05. Events such as these are made possible by the dues-paying members of the Alumni Association whose financial support funds alumni programming.

It's easy to join the Alumni Association or renew the annual membership. When registering for Fall Fest 2005, simply check the box near the end of registration form and include the membership-fee payment along with the registration fees, or use the coupon below.

“Friends: One Day... One Wrong Turn”

A powerful exhibit with an important message for young people and drivers of all ages came to SUNYIT's Gannett Gallery this past semester.

Hundreds of people of all ages viewed “Friends: One Day... One Wrong Turn,” the work of the Lewis Henry Morgan Institute at SUNYIT in conjunction with the New York State STOP-DWI program. Dr. F. Andrew Wolfe, assistant professor of civil engineering technology and the Morgan Institute's executive director, says the exhibit focuses on the lives of four young people killed in a DWI-related accident on the campus of Colgate University four years ago.

Visitors found the “Friends” exhibit to be a moving experience.

“The exhibit looks at the decisions that the people involved made and how those decisions affected their lives,” Dr. Wolfe says. “The power of the exhibit is in the telling of the lives of the victims, which allows the viewer to know them, and the timeline and forensics of the crash where you see how several bad decisions – driving drunk, getting into a car driven by someone you don't know – had a terrible result.”

“Friends: One Day... One Wrong Turn” emphasizes the lives of the victims before the crash, telling their individual stories through photographs, personal possessions, and interviews with their friends and family members. A detailed timeline describes the day of the crash; a significant portion of the exhibit details the

“It is part of the research of the Lewis Henry Morgan Institute,” Dr. Wolfe says. The Institute is named after the 19th century scholar, lawyer and state legislator from Aurora, N.Y., considered by many historians to be the father of American anthropology. The non-profit Lewis Henry Morgan Institute (LHMI) was founded in September 2000 by Dr. Wolfe and Dr. Foley to provide anthropological, archeological, and engineering research to local communities. LHMI enjoyed its first success with the discovery in November 2000 of the Albany Weighlock of the Enlarged Erie Canal in Albany, N.Y., and LHMI used its expertise in forensic anthropology to develop the “Friends” exhibit. The mission of both branches of LHMI is to use its expertise to help communities long-lasting effects of the accident on those who knew the victims and the wider community.

The exhibit has traveled the state, taking its message to colleges, universities, and other venues, including the New York State Fair. It was featured in Kunsela Hall's Gannett Gallery in February and March. Curated by Dr. Denis Foley, research professor of anthropology at Union College, in collaboration with Rachel Seligman, Director/Curator of the Mandeville Gallery of Union College, “Friends” was funded by the Governor's Traffic Safety Council, New York State Stop DWI Coordinators' Foundation, The Rachel Foundation, The Sheldon & Ruth Goldstein Foundation, New York Press Association Foundation, and private contributions.

focus on issues of importance.

“As executive director, I am responsible for the scheduling and logistics of the exhibit. But it has a strong pull once you get involved,” Dr. Wolfe says. As part of its research, the Morgan Institute measures the power of the exhibit to communicate key messages to those who see it.

“We have an evaluation sheet which people fill out after they view the exhibit,” Dr. Wolfe says. “I can tell you that it impacts me every time I set it up or view it.”

MATCHING GIFT PROGRAM

If you work for a company that matches gifts to higher education, you can double or triple the value of your contribution by following your employer's matching gift procedures. Many companies match the gifts of spouses, retirees, and surviving spouses of retirees in addition to gifts from current employees. Please contact your personnel or human resources office for eligibility information and to obtain a matching gift form. Enclose the completed form with your contribution. We will verify your contribution and return the form to your employer, who will send the matching gift directly to SUNYIT. We appreciate your efforts to maximize the available resources to ensure a bright future for SUNYIT and its students.

SUNYIT alumnus killed in Iraq

A member of the class of 2003 was killed outside Fallujah, Iraq, while serving as an interpreter for American troops.

Ismail Zebari, 28, a former Kurdish refugee who came to America with his family in 1996 and became a U. S. citizen in March 2004, went to Iraq in August as a volunteer translator for the military. A Binghamton resident, he was a 2003 graduate of SUNYIT, earning a bachelor of science in electrical engineering technology.

"He probably was one of the most conscientious and most helpful students I ever had," said Larry Dunn, assistant professor of civil engineering technology. "He was strong in math, so he often helped other students who were having trouble."

Zebari came to the U. S. with his parents and 13 brothers and sisters after spending several years in a refugee camp in Turkey following the 1991 Gulf War. He attended Broome Community College before completing his degree at SUNYIT.

Domestic and international media accounts said Zebari was killed when his car was attacked by Iraqi insurgents on Nov. 12, 2004.

Wife of SUNYIT's second president

Barbara M. Kunsela, 88, died on December 29, 2004, in Edmonds, Wash. Born in Massena, N.Y., she was a graduate of St. Lawrence University and taught high school English in Middleville until her 1941 marriage to William R. Kunsela, who served as President of SUNYIT from 1973-1982.

Talent Night

Members of the SUNYIT community, including current students, parents and family members of students, faculty and staff members, and alumni, who are amateur performers are eligible to take part in Talent Night and compete for cash prizes.

Entry Deadline: Thursday, September 8 – 4:30 p.m.
(selected performers will be notified)

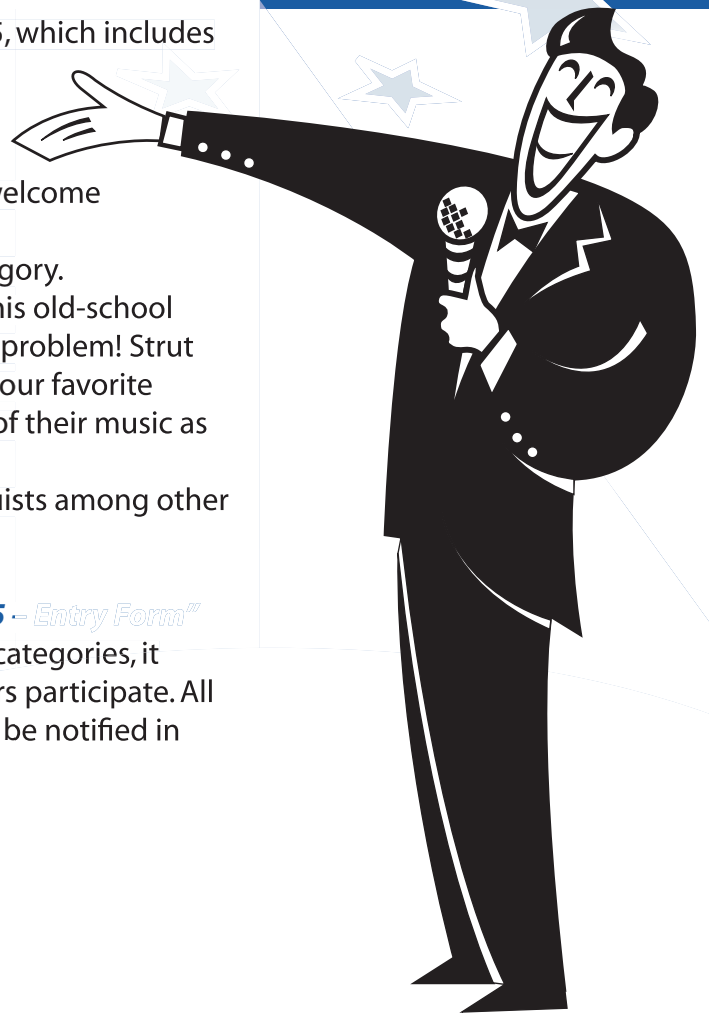

Performance Date: Friday, September 23 – 8 p.m.

A new twist has been added to Talent Night for 2005, which includes performers competing by category.

Performance categories:

- Musical: Singers, instrumentalists and bands are welcome to perform original music or covers.
- Dance: All forms of dance are included in this category.
- Lip Synch/Airband: Talent Night goes retro with this old-school category. Can't sing? Can't play an instrument? No problem! Strut your stuff and entertain the crowd by mimicking your favorite artist, or provide your own original interpretation of their music as you mouth the words.
- Miscellaneous: Jugglers, magicians and ventriloquists among other performers are included in this category.

For details on entering, see the "Talent Night 2005 - Entry Form" on page 16. Due to time constraints and to balance categories, it may not be possible to have all interested performers participate. All performers submitting entries for consideration will be notified in advance of whether or not they have been selected.
